The Salvation Army Code of Conduct for Disaster Workers

The Salvation Army is a worldwide religious and charitable organization, motivated by the love of God and concern for the needs of humanity. The Army's tradition of helping those in need began more than 150 years ago, and providing emergency relief to disaster victims is just one of many services The Salvation Army offers to those in need.

Salvation Army disaster workers are expected to respect this tradition of service and conduct themselves in a manner reflective of the compassion and dignity of Christ. You are expected to adhere to the highest standards of personal, professional, and business ethics and to always use common sense and good judgment about the way you conduct yourself when on duty or representing The Salvation Army. Most of all, it is expected that all disaster workers of The Salvation Army will treat those we serve with respect and care, dispensing services equally and without discrimination.

As a Salvation Army disaster worker, you pledge to:

- Treat all people equally and deliver services without discrimination for any reason;
- Respect cultural and religious differences and accommodate these differences in the delivery of services;
- Protect the confidentiality of our clients and to refrain from disclosing sensitive information;
- Be mindful of expenses and help ensure that all donations, financial or in-kind, are used expressly for the purpose the donor intended;
- Refrain from business or conduct that is unethical or damaging to The Salvation Army's reputation;
- Avoid engaging in any illegal activity; and
- Support the Christian principals and mission of The Salvation Army.

When feasible, Salvation Army disaster workers should remove their disaster apparel and identification when off-duty. The Salvation Army does not support the use of alcohol. Smoking and the use of other tobacco products is not permitted within Salvation Army facilities and Salvation Army disaster workers should refrain from using products while engaged in service delivery.

Inappropriate or unethical behavior may result in corrective action, including permanent dismissal as a Salvation Army disaster worker.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20006.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.

• Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. For information about your federal rights, contact:

SAFE FROM HARM

Guidelines for Working with Children, Youth and Vulnerable Adults

Abuse of vulnerable persons, including children, frail elders, the physically challenged or the mentally impaired, is a reality in our society. The Salvation Army is committed to addressing this reality by taking steps to protect all categories of vulnerable persons in our care. The Central Territory has implemented a program to safeguard these special individuals while promoting a positive, nurturing environment for ministry to them. The guidelines below are to be followed by anyone working with vulnerable or dependent persons in the Central Territory.

- Two Adult Guideline - Whenever feasible, a vulnerable person will not be in the primary care of only one adult. Teams of adults (preferably male and female) will supervise activities. This guideline has three purposes: it provides for more than one adult to help ensure appropriate levels of supervision. It protects workers and The Salvation Army from unfounded allegations. It lessens the possibility of an adult becoming a “guru” or “confidante” who thrives on the dependency of the vulnerable person, as well as an adult having undue influence over an individual.
- Guidelines for Touching - The sense of touch is extremely powerful and can wordlessly convey messages on many levels. Touch is necessary to all human thriving, but when used to manipulate, control or harm another, touch can be deadly. In our role as a “good shepherd,” The Salvation Army must take steps to protect any and all vulnerable populations in our care.

Appropriate physical contact between workers and program participants is important. Hugs and other forms affection, properly applied, help children developmentally and communicate warmth to people of all ages. Safe From Harm includes guidelines for touching that will, when carefully adhered to, safeguard those participating in our corps, worship, social service, and/or community service programs.

The guidelines below are to be closely followed by anyone working with vulnerable individuals:

- Touching behavior should not give even the appearance of wrongdoing. As Salvation Army representatives, our behavior must foster trust at all times; it should be above reproach.
- Workers are responsible to protect those under their supervision from inappropriate touching by others.
- Workers must promptly discuss inappropriate touching or other questionable behavior by co-workers with their supervisor or commanding officer.

Touching Guidelines specific to children/youth workers:

- Touching should be initiated by the child or youth. It should be a response to the child’s need for comforting, encouragement, or affection. It should not be based upon the adult’s emotional need.
 - Touching and affection should only be given when in the presence of other children’s ministry or youth workers. It is much less likely that touches will be inappropriate or misconstrued as such when two adult workers are present, and the touching is open to observation. This rule is especially important when diapering a baby or helping a young child change clothes or use the restroom.
 - A child’s preference not to be touched should be respected. Do not force affection upon a reluctant child.
- Individual Counseling - Team communication is preferable. When not feasible, notify another adult worker of the location and with whom you are meeting. Counseling should be done in a public setting where private conversations are possible and should occur in full view of others. Guard carefully to avoid seclusion. If possible, have female workers meet with females and male workers meet with males. A male/female team is generally appropriate for either gender.

- Long-Term Counseling - Workers should not meet with vulnerable individuals more than three times to discuss the same issue. Workers are not prepared or supported for long-term counseling or formal therapy. Adult leaders are encouraged to refer persons who they suspect have a serious need for counseling to professionals in the community. Questions about referral must be discussed promptly with the program leader.

- Informal Contact (Independent of Salvation Army Activities) - Informal contact refers to phone calls, cards/letters, electronic messages or face-to-face contact between a worker and a program participant that is not connected to official Salvation Army activities. The Salvation Army recognizes that informal contact between workers and participants does occur. For example, workers may hire teens as baby sitters for their own children, or workers may see program participants during social events with a child's family, in worship services or at corp functions. This interaction is usually legitimate and beneficial.

With respect to children/youth, workers should seek the permission of parents before having informal contact with their child. The worker should clearly let the parent know the nature of the contact, and that it is not part of an official Salvation Army activity. Parents are responsible for monitoring this informal contact.

- Transportation To and From Meetings - Transportation to and from meetings is not a normal part of corps/program. In some cases, Salvation Army vehicles and drivers are provided as a component of the activity. The Salvation Army is not responsible for providing or arranging for transportation to activities that do not already include planned transportation by the corps/service/program. Family members or other adults are discouraged from asking workers to transport children or adult program participants informally. However, if a worker does transport a program participant at the parent's/responsible party's request, this should be recognized as informal contact (not a part of corps activities), and the guidelines for informal contact should be followed (see paragraph above).

Note: The practice of workers transporting minors is discouraged. However, if a unit chooses to allow this on a limited basis, ask parents to sign a form acknowledging that these rides are not a part of unit activity, and that the parent is responsible for supervising such activity.

- Transportation as a Part of Corps Activities - Units may provide transportation as an official part of certain corps activities. For example, corps may provide transportation to out-of-town events or field trips. When people are transported as a part of unit activities, all relevant guidelines will apply. Following the "two adult guideline" and having all drivers complete a Driver Application Form are especially important.
- Confidentiality - Workers must report to an appropriate leader if a program participant discusses harming himself or others, committing a crime, or being abused. There are limits to confidentiality when working with vulnerable persons. Questions about such cases or other issues of confidentiality must be discussed promptly with the supervisor or commanding officer/administrator. Conferring with an officer on sensitive issues is not considered breaking a confidence.
- Gifts - Workers are generally discouraged from giving or receiving personal gifts with program participants, including money. When the giving of personal gifts is desired, the worker must first notify parents and/or the supervisor. Gifts can be easily misinterpreted. Gifts given to groups of young people are appropriate, such as graduation presents or awards for participation and do not require notification of parents or supervisors. It is inappropriate for workers to accept or solicit gifts of any kind, including planned giving appeals, with vulnerable adult program participants.
- Corporal Punishment - Corporal punishment involving painful touch (hitting or spanking) and physical forms of maintaining order are not appropriate in Salvation Army activities. This rule holds true even if parents have suggested or given permission for corporal punishment. Workers must consult their supervisors if they need help with unruly program participants or discipline techniques.

- Open Door Guideline - All program events should be conducted with an “open door” approach. This means that parents/family members, other program participants and/or corps members have a right to observe any activity. Parents/family members and/or other caregivers should be informed that there are never secret activities, treatments or initiations in any Salvation Army programs. An atmosphere of transparency must be maintained at all times.
- Romantic or Sexual Involvement - Salvation Army workers are strictly prohibited from relationships with program participants that involve, even remotely, dating or sexual involvement. Additionally, adult youth workers may not be romantically or sexually involved with minor coworkers. Any individual with prior incidents of sexual misconduct may not serve in any capacity caring for minors or other vulnerable persons in Salvation Army programs.
- Supervision and Communication - Workers must meet on a regular basis with program leaders and program leaders must meet with the officer in charge/administrator periodically to discuss any issues regarding these guidelines. Appropriate topics that must be discussed include problems, accountability, guideline clarification, personal feelings, or other issues that may interfere with ministry efforts.

Guidelines Specific to Children/Youth Programs:

Youth Supervising Youth - Minors may help adults lead youth activities only under the direct leadership of adults. A minor may not be used to meet the team leadership or team counseling guidelines discussed above.

High Adventure Activities- Special precautions must be taken on high adventure activities such as: rock climbing, hiking, overnight camps, raft trips, or the like. Both physical safety and safety from abuse are at risk in high adventure situations. A high ratio of adults to youth is recommended. Guides for high adventure activities should be licensed by the sports governing body or government authorities to guide groups whenever possible. High adventure camping often raises unique circumstances involving individual privacy, sleeping arrangements, bathroom facilities, and so on. Adult leaders must be vigilant to avoid suspicious or misinterpreted behavior in these circumstances.

Overnight Activities - At least two adults should supervise overnight activities. If the participants are male and female, then male and female chaperons must be present. If these conditions cannot be met, then the event should be postponed. Males and females attending events must not share the same sleeping quarters and should have separate access to bathroom facilities. Experienced workers should be included with newcomers to any ministry serving children and youth.

IN CLOSING:

Workers must report suspected or observed misconduct by other workers to the program leader or officer/administrator immediately.

Workers must avoid even the appearance of misconduct. This is necessary in order to maintain public confidence and avoid mistaken allegations.

Workers who disobey these guidelines may be reassigned or relieved from a program duty at the discretion of corps/program leaders or administrators.

I have read the guidelines above. I agree to observe them faithfully.
